12. After you have clicked “enable”, this box will pop up. Click on the switch to turn on notifications, then click the dark blue “save permissions” button. The box should then go away.

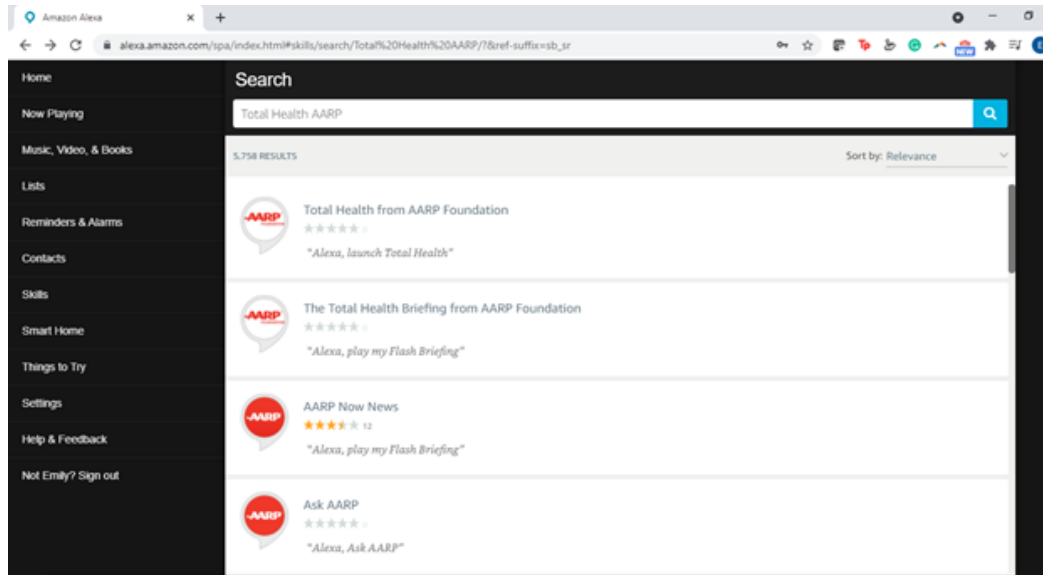

13. You will now see a screen like this. This means that the skill has been enabled on your device.

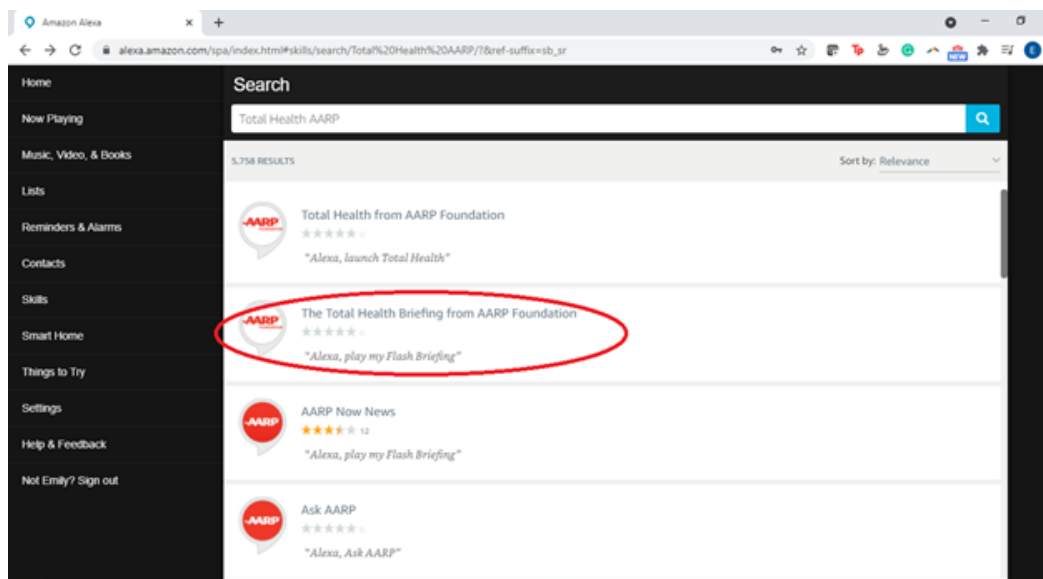

2. Setting up the Total Health AARP Flash Briefing

1. Click the back button to return to the search page. This button may look different depending on the computer you're using. Now you should be back on the search page.

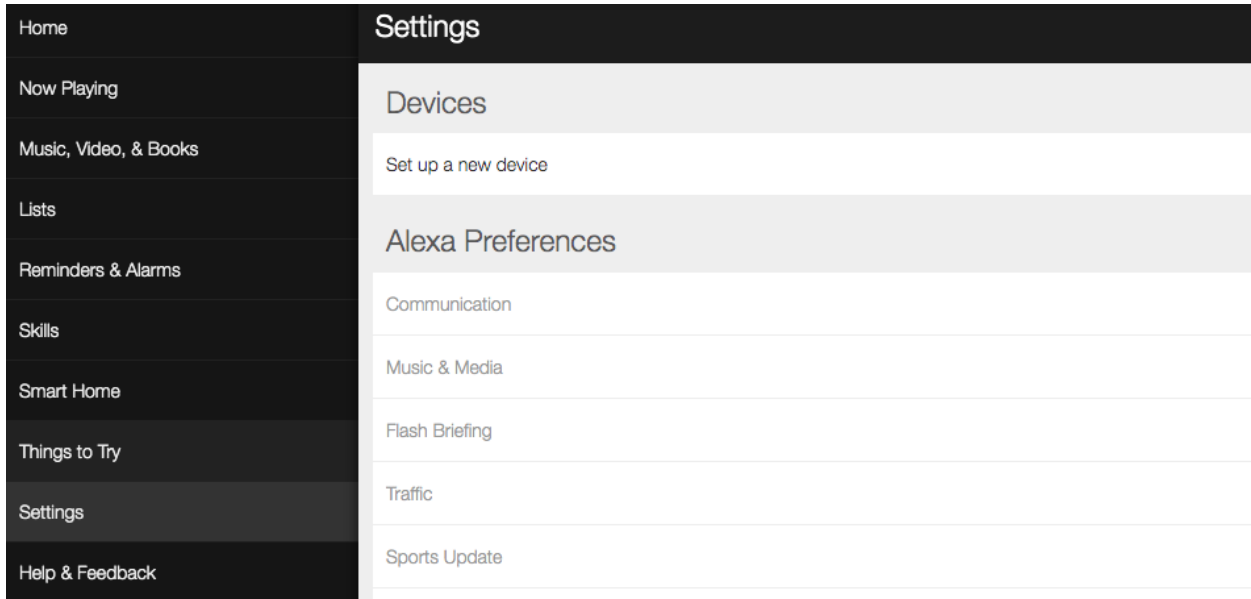

2. Click on the second search result, titled: "The Total Health Briefing from AARP Foundation."

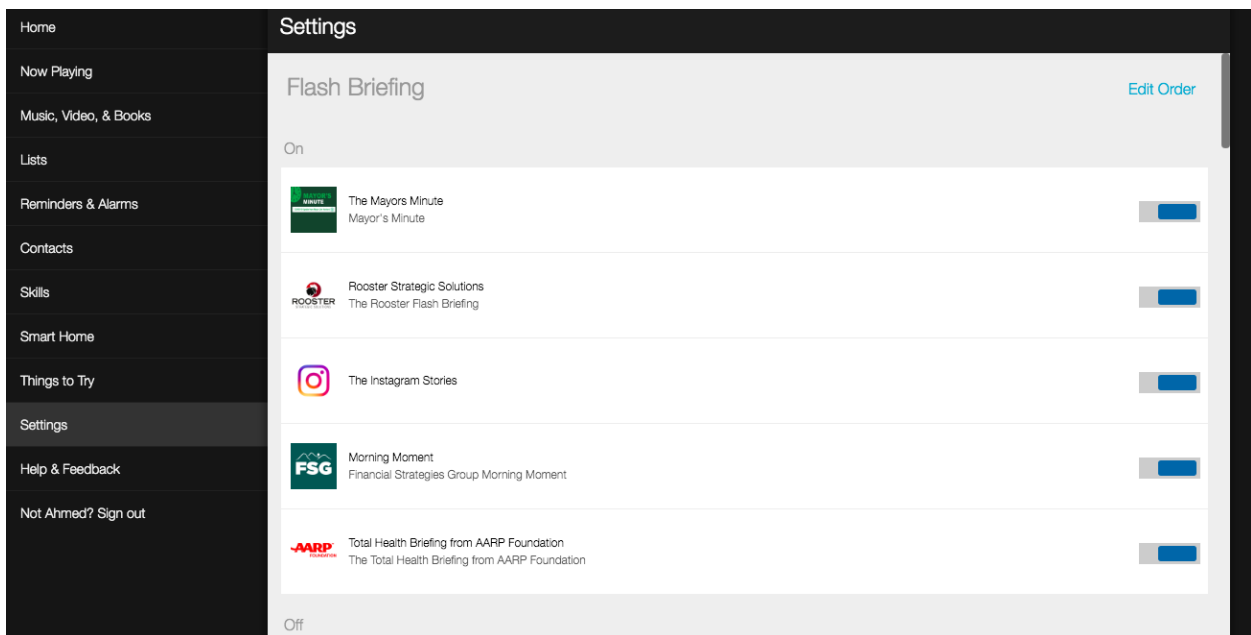

3. Follow steps 10, 11, and 12 from the first section above.

4. Next, check on the flash briefing by going to Settings. Look for Flash Briefing to the right of the menu, under the “Alexa Preference” section.

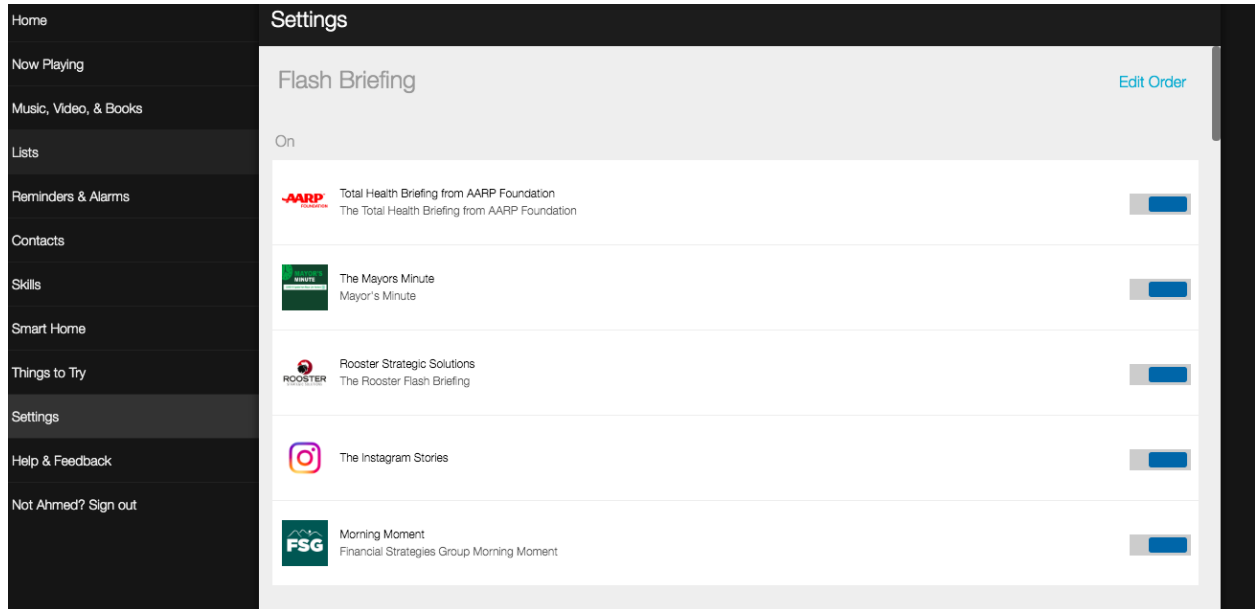

5. You will see a screen like this.

6. If you'd like to have the Total Health Flash Briefing be the first one that Alexa will play for you, then click on "Edit Order"

7. Then drag the last row all the way to the top and click on done. The screen will now look like this.

8. Now go to your Echo and say, "Alexa, Flash Briefing" and you should hear the Total Health Flash Briefing play first.
